Rick Steber Books

Secrets of the Bull

In Secrets of the Bull big Frank Battle is pitted against his family, the government and the many forces bent on gentrifying his pristine valley where the Battle family has operated a sprawling ranch through four generations. Even after his death, Frank maintains his iron-fisted control with a stipulation in his will requiring his family to come together and operate the ranch for one year — and show a profit — or lose it all. (retail $15 - wholesale $9)

Forty Candles on a Cowboy Cake

Forty Candles on a Cowboy Cake is an entertaining contemporary western novel by award-winning author Rick Steber. This story, set on the High Desert of Central Oregon, is irreverent, sinful and as unpredictable as a bunch of drovers hitting town after a long cattle drive. (retail $15 - wholesale $9)

Buy the Chief a Cadillac

Winner of the Western Writers of America Spur Award. This nationally-acclaimed novel portrays the ignorance, greed and madness of reservation life during the disastrous 1961 termination of the Klamath Indian Tribe. "This book should be added to reading lists for students of American history." — Tony Hillerman

Buckaroo Heart

Herman Vowell was a cowboy — Betty Torrens a city girl. They found love on a remote cattle ranch until tragedy and the outside world encroached on their happiness. A tender and true story about a powerful and everlasting love. It will capture your heart.
(retail $15 - wholesale $9)

Wild Horse Rider

Lew Minor was the best bronc buster in the world and he proved it, winning the 1912 World Saddlebronc Championship. But progress and the gas engine replaced raw horsepower. In his later years Lew was left alone and all but forgotten, except for one man who refused to allow his legend to die.
(retail $15 - wholesale $9)

New York to Nome

The true story of one of history's most remarkable expeditions, the 1936-1937 discovery of the Northwest Passage by two headstrong young men, Shell Taylor and Jeff Pope. The Guinness Book of World Records called it the longest canoe trip in history.
(retail $15 - wholesale $9)

No End in Sight

Rachael Scodris earned international attention by becoming the first legally blind musher to complete the Iditarod sled dog race. This inspirational book portrays her struggle for acceptance, her fight against the limitations imposed by others, and the triumph of making her dreams come true.
